OBJECTIVES OF THE CONFERENCE:

Over the past decade, the security environment has become increasingly dynamic and turbulent, and recently very hostile. The international order has been greatly shaken, therefore participants in the international community should take a huge step forward and increase our ability and willingness to act, strengthen our resilience, and invest more and more effectively in common defense capabilities. The war in Ukraine provoked by the Russian Federation has caused a multi-faceted crisis on a regional, and in some areas, even global, scale. The escalation of Russian aggression in Eastern Europe is destabilizing the national and international order and security. It applies to all areas of functioning of states and societies, with particular emphasis on political, economic and social ones. This determines the democratic international community to verify national and solutions that guarantee international systemic efficient functioning and development. An example of this may be legislative changes taking place in the Republic of Poland in the areas of state defense, such as the implementation of the Act on Homeland Defense, or the processing of the Act on Civil Protection and the State of Natural Disaster. The new legal solutions are to constitute the basis for carrying out thorough organizational and functional changes in the state security system. The changes in question include increasing the number of the Polish Armed Forces (including the reconstruction of personnel reserves), introducing new states of functioning of the state (threat and emergency), delegating the authority to riahts and introduce restrictions on civil freedoms based on regulations, expanding the list of entities entitled to the so-called "mandate proceedings", etc.

Therefore, according to the conference organizers, it seems reasonable to project changes in the security environment, redefine factors affecting state security in the last decade, as well as verify the currently applicable legal and organizational solutions and search for systemic solutions increasing the level of national and international security.

We are convinced that your active participation in our conference will contribute in giving a high scientific level, and the results of discussion will be used to solve many important problems in the field of broadly understood security.

The objectives of the conference also include:

- integration of the scientific community towards the problems of the present and the future;
- searching for areas and topics of cooperation;
- exchange of research experiences;
- stimulating an interdisciplinary debate on the past, present and future complex security environment in the areas of: international, political, military, economic, socio-cultural and information security, conditioned by changes taking place in this environment in the last decade.
